McDONALD, Frederick Lynn and Dawna May Montgomery

Frederick Lynn McDonald, son of Robert and Elizabeth Andrew McDonald, of Irish and English descent was born March 6, 1918, in Heber City, Utah.

He spent the summers of his childhood with his father herding sheep in the mountains around Heber Valley where he became an expert with sling shot, rifle and pistol.

He received his early education in several different schools and graduated from Wasatch High where, during his senior year, he received the shop award for his fine furniture. He attended Utah Technical College in Provo, Utah where he studied diesel mechanics and truck repair.

He and Dawna May Montgomery were married October 16, 1937, in Provo, Utah. They were sealed in the Salt Lake Temple October 11, 1954.

Lynn's first employment was during the summer months when he drove a timber truck. This was his introduction to truck driving which became his lifetime occupation. He also worked for five years in the New Park metal mines west of Hailstone, Utah. He was the first employee hired by Turner Building Supply, and he worked for them and Turner Construction Company for thirty-three years operating and repairing trucks and machinery. For a short time he operated the same type of machinery for Talboe Construction Company in Provo and England Brothers Truckline. Wherever Lynn worked, he earned a reputation as a dependable and honest employee.

Lynn's hobbies have to do with the out-of-doors. He especially enjoys taking Dawna with him to gather firewood and to ride their motorcycles. Their togetherness is also shown in the home they built and still occupy. To earn the timber for that home, Lynn worked at a lumber mill above Kamas, Utah.

Lynn also served in the United States Army Infantry Division during 1945 where he was noted for his excellent marksmanship and from which he was honorably discharged.

Dawna May Montgomery McDonald was born May 19, 1921, in Heber City, Utah, to Shield and Ila Edna Sulser Montgomery.

194

She received her education in the Wasatch County School District. During her senior year she attended Utah Technical College in Provo to study art.

Besides being a homemaker, Dawna has been employed by several firms in Heber City as a clerk, a manager, and as a sewing machine operator. She has also worked in several motels and the Homestead Resort.

Dawna's hobbies and interests center around her two cats, the out-of-doors, art work and carpentry. Since she has traveled often with her husband, she has seen and enjoyed much of the Western United States.

Lynn and Dawna are parents of four children — Jean, formerly Winterton, now Mrs. Bryant R. Anderson, Midway; Nile who married Karma Anderson, Center Creek; Linda Lou (Mrs. LaMar) Gray; Montrose, Colorado; and Joy (Mrs. Jeff) Hardman, Center Creek. They have nineteen grandchildren and thirteen great-grandchildren.

Lynn and Dawna recall the death of Linda Lou's first husband, Phil R. Swain, at the age of twenty-two, as the most poignant tragedy in their lives. Except for this trauma, they have lived a peaceful and happy life together. 195
